POETRY.

[Here is a beautiful idyl from our favorite, "Ada." It will be read with pleasure by all lovers of true poetry :] For the PUBLIC LEDGER.

MY SUMMER RETREAT.

BY ADA BOXERVILLE. The path that leads down yander grove-My summer's dear retreat, And at the heat of noon I love That way to turn my feet: For o'er the walk cypress and yew Their dusky follage twine, And form an arch that keeps from view The sun's most brilliant shine

Beneath you large yew's foliage green My seat's a messy knoll, And there from favorite books I glean Refreshment for the soul: The scone that stretches out before Is coudy, rich and gay, It seems to be the fairy shere Of Nature's best display.

The meadows of their burden clear Are dressed in varied green, And shadows, as they quickly veer, Are genous soon as seen ; The fragrance of the new mown hay On every breeze is borne, And become have held a gentle sway

Far in the distance o'er the look The village spires are shown, and in the vale beneath you rock A nest oot stands alone; More near this way a pebbly stream Murnurs through rosy bowers,

O'er fields of golden corn.

Reflecting every sunny beam Through tendrils of the flowers NEW Yong, March, 1806.

One-fourth Gene.

Upon the remark of Senator Doolittle that one-fourth of the negroes of the South had died during the war, the Mobile Advertiser comments:

We do not think the general figures are We do not think the general figures are overstated, although we have no idea that 50,000 have perished in battle of wounds. But want, imprudence and disease have swept away one-fourth of the negro population with which the war began, and by the next census the Senator thinks two-fifths of the whole will have perished! The worst of it is, that the causes of destruction (not being the ravages of war) are yet, and will continue to be, in active and energetic force in times of peace. and energetic force in times of peace. At this moment the small-pox is sweeping the colored race as with a besom of destruction. Can it be, we sometimes think the purpose of the Almighty to repeat the Indian history in that of the African? Having served his purpose of development and civilization, is he to dis appear from the face of the earth? That surely is the present direction of the surely is the present direction of the black man's march, and it will not take many revolutions of the seasons, at the present rate of progression, to reach the end. Then what becomes of the theory that God sent them into bondage here, in order to their elevation, and that they might one day carry back the light and blessings of civilization and religion to their own benighted country? Where, too, shall we look for that colored aris tocracy of mind and manners which Chief Justice Chase forecasts in the near future of Southern society? God's ways are inscrutable, surely; and so are those Roof the Abolition friends of the poor

A New Invention-Paper Socks.

Paper is certainly a progressive arti-cle. Not content with forming material out of which collars and cuffs are made, the domain of linen, cotton and wool. The newspapers now announce the introduction of paper socks. In regard to the last addition the Scientific American says. "The object of this invention consists is producing a new article of manufacture, viz: socks made of paper, or paper and muslin combined. It is well known that paper is one of the less materials for keeping, in or causing est materials for keeping in or causing the body to retain its natural heat; in other words, it prevents cold air from reaching such parts of the body as may be enveloped in it. The inventor de-aigns his socks particularly for use under or over a pair of ordinary socks or stockings, to be worn in cold weather; but it is obvious that they can be made of a kind of paper which will last as long as an ordinary pair would keep clean, and they can be made so cheaply that their cost will not equal the price of washing. Surely, the world is advancing, for paper socks, indeed, will prove a novelty. If they can be manufactured as chennity as their inventor claims, they will rapidly grow into general use, and thus leaven the profits of the washwoman. If we can have paper socks, why cannot we find a substitute for linen altogether? It seems to us that paper shirt bosoms demand our next attention.
